American Doughboys Continue Battle To Push Forward In Ormoc Valley

U. S. PATROL PLANES SINK DESTROYER

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 6.—American doughboys on Leyte island continued today in their dogged battle to push their lines forward in the vital Ormoc valley in a drive hampered by enemy tank-paced counter-attacks and heavy rains.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Wednesday communique revealed that the battle for Leyte is being waged on roads and trails which have been converted into quagmires by continuing torrential rains.

Jap Thrusts Smashed

The Japanese launched several counter-attacks under cover of darkness against the American road block at the north end of Ormoc valley Saturday but dead-ended a fire by 32nd division infantrymen smashed the enemy thrusts.

The American ground forces south of Ormoc, meanwhile, made local gains as they heightened the threat from the south to the Japs' last remaining area of control on Leyte while in mountains east of Ormoc others continued systematic mopping up of enemy pockets of resistance.

New blows against enemy shipping resulted in the sinking of one Jap destroyer and five small freighters in Philippine waters were also revealed in the communique.

Enemy Destroyer Sunk

The enemy destroyer was sent to the bottom Saturday by American patrol planes in an attack on Jap shipping off the southwest coast of Luzon, largest of the Philippines. In the same raid two coastal vessels were strafed while other planes harassed Jap airdromes in the Manila area and destroyed enemy barracks at Port Stensborg, north of the capital city.

The communique also reported another daring sortie by United States destroyers into waters west of Ormoc which resulted in the sinking of a Jap freighter near

Ammunition Supply For Modern Battle Is Gigantic Problem

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The supply of ammunition to troops in modern battle is probably the most difficult of all problems to the high command and staff. That is because of its tremendous weight and the terrific rapidity of fire of automatic and semi-automatic weapons. War has altered and improved modern weapons. But the figures of the Army's 1939 table of organization are sufficiently accurate to give a good idea of the amount of ammunition.

The 75MM. cannon, both Howitzer and gun, in prolonged fire—that means shooting half a day or even several days—can discharge three rounds per minute or six rounds per minute in short, quick bursts. Each shell weighs approximately 25 pounds.

Thus it may be seen that this small calibre piece could in sustained fire in one day use up 8,640 shells and they would weigh 216,000 pounds. Remember that's for one cannon only.

A 105MM. Howitzer can fire two shots in a minute in prolonged fire and four in short bursts. Each shell weighs 64 pounds. That one

Dedication At Deshon Annex On Thursday

Pearl Harbor Day will be marked in New Castle Thursday, December 7, by the dedication of an automobile driving course at the Deshon Annex at 2:30 in the afternoon. The course, patterned somewhat after the super-driving training field at Pittsburgh is the first one in the United States to be installed for remedial exercises for wounded veterans.

Secretary of Revenue David W. Harris, under whose direction the course was installed, will present it for use by the veterans of the Annex. Col. C. J. Gentzkow, commanding Deshon General Hospital, will accept it. Chief of Police Robert Hanna will welcome the guests present for Mayor John F. Haven who will be out of the city, and Judge W. Walter Brahm will speak. Following the dedication, an "open house" will be held at camp with Lt. Leo T. Nealon, commander of the Annex unit staging a demonstration of remedial exercises in the gymnasium.

As the personal representative of Rear Admiral Fraemele, commandant of the Fourth Naval District in Boston, Mass., Lt. Com. John J. Gallagher will be present to inspect the driving course and get suggestions for similar courses at naval reconditioning units. Designing Engineer H. J. Baker of the

Corporation Sales Of War Loan Bonds Spurts In State

Leaders Expect Huge Sales To Individuals On Pearl Harbor Day, Thursday

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(INS)—Sales to corporations continued to set the pace in Pennsylvania's Sixth War Loan drive with a total through Monday of $535,000,000 or 94 per cent of the $568,000,000 quota. G. Ruhland Rebmann Jr., chairman of the State War Finance committee, announced today.

Total sales to individuals continued their steady gains but E bond sales are not maintaining a comparable pace. Individual sales, including E bonds, rose $11,277,827 to $204,764,136 or 55 per cent of the $370,000,000 quota. E bonds increased $4,378,531 to $72,570,235 or 40 per cent of the $180,000,000 goal.

Rebmann urged individual purchasers to observe the third anniversary of Pearl Harbor tomorrow by making an extra effort to buy E bonds. He suggested that issuing agencies inscribe such bonds bought tomorrow with the reminder, "Lest we forget Pearl Harbor."

Eighth Army Fans Westward After Capture Of Italian Metropolis Of Ravenna

By MICHAEL CHINIGO
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Dec. 6.—The victorious British eighth army fanned westward from the captured Italian metropolis of Ravenna against apparently disorganized Nazi defenses and seized the three key towns of Godo, San Michele and Pianigiane, Mediterranean headquarters announced today.

Inside Ravenna itself Italian patriots enthusiastically joined forces with the British to mop up isolated pockets of Nazi resistance.

Caught Nazis Off Balance
The swift thrust of the eighth army which encircled and then seized Ravenna after the capture of the highway town of Russi to the southwest, apparently caught the Nazis off balance for prisoners indicated that the Wehrmacht's retreat was badly disorganized.

Other British columns along with Polish forces, smashed their way across the Lamone river in strength southwest of Faenza and aimed a spearhead at the heart of that highway junction against increasing Nazi resistance.

YANKS POISE TO HURDLE INTO SAAR COAL BASIN

Hard hitting Yank troops of the Third Army, having crossed the Saar river at Saarlautern, have fanned out for more than 16 miles to points beyond Merzig (indicated by large arrow) and established at springboard to the rich Saar coal basin. Other U. S. Third Army troops are within a mile of Saarbrücken, industrial capital, and General Patch's forces hammer northward along the Rhine from Haguenau. The Patch drive not only menaces strategic Karlsruhe, but aided by thrusts over the Saar river, threatens to creep up the Rhine river corridor toward vital Ludwigshafen and Mainz.

"--- And Pass The Ammunition"

These are the ambassadors of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the "Firepower Team" which is pleading for more artillery and shells for the men on the western front. The four enlisted men were taken right from the fighting line near Aachen and sent back by plane, the officer is recently back from some rugged duty in Burma. All five are visiting and speaking in New Castle and West Pittsburg this week in an effort to speed up the production of shells and artillery. From left to right they are Pfc. Mel Byrne of Philadelphia, Sergeant Richard Vanderbloemen of De Pere, Wisconsin, Captain William Scott, of Lansford, Pa., Pfc. Stanley Palka of McKeesport, and Pfc. Steve Janicki of Ambridge.

Huge Bomber Squads Make German Raids

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(INS)—Huge formations of American heavy bombers and fighter planes headed out from England at dawn today for fresh assaults against German targets.

Heavyweights of the British Royal Air Force were out during the night to attack railway marshalling yards at Soest, 15 miles southeast of Hamm, following a daylight British raid on Hamm and forceful attacks by American big bombers on Berlin and the rail and industrial center of Munster.

The Germans hit back during the night and early today with more rocket bombs against England. Both damage and casualties resulted.

Headquarters of the United States Air Force announced that the Americans had destroyed 91 German planes in combat over Berlin yesterday.

Out of approximately 550 Fortress and Liberator bombers and 800 escorting Mustangs which carried out the operation, the U. S. lost 12 bombers and 22 fighters, but at least 11 fighters were believed to have landed in friendly territory.

Aachen Veterans Tell Of Ammunition Need

General Dwight Eisenhower's ambassadors, four veterans of the fighting in Europe told their story of ammunition rationing to a group of 100 representatives of labor and industry Tuesday night in The Castleton hotel when the Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation and the United Engineering and Foundry Company sponsored a dinner in honor of the fighters.

It wasn't a pretty story but it was an effective one. Artillery silent because of the lack of proper reserves of shells, artillerymen crouching in fox holes, trusting to luck to save their lives instead of the 105 and 155 mm. shells they should have had. And all of them finished on a line they never should have to use again, "send us more ammunition if you want this war won quickly."

Rationed Shells
The veterans of North Africa, Normandy, Belgium and the German front told of having to ease up on their firing in order to conserve a rapidly dwindling stock of shells. Spotting rounds of three shells instead of five, periods when

Six Bridgeheads Now Established Over Saar River

New Advance Threatens To Trap Large Body Of German Troops

SAARBRUCKEN IS HEAVILY SHELLED

By THURSTON MACAULEY
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Dec. 6.—American Third Army infantrymen and tanks streamed across the Saar river through six bridgeheads today and hammered their way into the city of Sarreguemines in a giant thrust which threatened to entrap a large body of Nazi troops.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's advancing divisions hurled their tank-led spearheads across the Saar between Merzig and Saarlautern to bring to six the number of bridgeheads in their possession and, in a rapid seven-mile gain, thundered into the outskirts of Sarreguemines.

Other patrols crossed the Saar north of Merzig, bastion city which failed to stall the Third Army's push into the outer defenses of the westwall.

Third Army Advances

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's spokesmen announced the Third Army scored "very substantial advances along an irregular front of 12 miles" as General Patton stepped up the battle for the Saar despite unfavorable weather.

Resistance was spotty—intense in several areas, weak in others as the enemy failed in efforts to maintain a continuous front before the defenses of the Siegfried line.

Patton's 90th Infantry Division and patrols of the 10th armored division roamed the east bank of the Saar north of Merzig.

The forest of Karlsbrunn was cleared of much of the enemy's resisting force.

U. S. CONGRESS GROUP IN FRANCE

U. S. THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, France, Dec. 6.—(INS)—The United States congressional party which is touring the European war theater arrived today at Third Army headquarters.

You don't get cigarettes you say, and butter's hard to buy, and steaks have almost disappeared, the cellar-ette is dry. Well that's too bad, or is it now, before you start to roar, remember this, there are some folks who need those things much more. Your butter and a heap of steaks are on the western front, and so before you start to grouse as now and then you hunt for rationed things, just stop and think, that stuff has gone to war, you don't need butter quite so bad, the weather's forty-four.

Need $700,000 Bond Sales To Reach Quota

There's still about $700,000 needed in bond purchases in Lawrence County to put the quota of $6,050,000 on ice, but the outlook seems to be encouraging. At noon today a total of $5,437,597.75 was reported which "ain't hay" but "it ain't quota either". The balance of $700,000 give or take a little is the toughest of the campaign.

It means that every individual in the county has to take a little more personal responsibility, buy another bond and put the quota over before December 16.

Arca Figures

The "E" bond sales is the gap in the picture. If these bonds were up near quota the rest would be a cinch. New Castle has purchased $425,785 "E" bonds, Ellwood City $422,795, New Wilmington $353,381.25, Volant $15,162.50, Wampum $3881.25, and Bessemer $18,518.75 a total of $926,023.75. The quota in "E" bonds is $1,650,000.

Don't wait to be solicited. Hand a soldier a gun by way of a bond or feed an artillery piece for a while with your bonds. It's a loan from you, the soldier gives.

THREE CHILDREN DEAD FROM FUMES

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Dec. 6.—(INS)—Three children were asphyxiated in a tiny Bellefonte apartment early today while their mother was working as a janitress in the nearby Titan Metal plant.

They were identified as Nancy, 4, Robert, 5, and Richard 7, only children of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Rossman.

Asphyxiation was caused by escaping illuminating gas from an oven burner which the children apparently had accidentally turned on after their mother left for work at 5 o'clock last night. When she returned early this morning she found the children.

Australians To Join In Battle In Pacific Area

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
LEYTE, Philippines, Dec. 6.—Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, Australian army commander, who has been on Leyte Island conferring with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said today that Australian troops would be used in the western Pacific.

Blamey refused to specify whether the Aussies would be used in the Philippines but merely pointed out that the western Pacific area included Celebes, Borneo, Java, Malaya, the Philippines and China.

"Australians have been training and rehabilitating for months," he declared. "Now we are on our toes and ready to go."

Blamey revealed that 59 per cent of Australian troops have volunteered for service anywhere on the battlefronts of the world. Originally many of the Aussie troops were limited to service in Australian mandated territories.

The Australian commander had a long conference with MacArthur yesterday and later visited with Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger, sixth army commander.

Futile Counter-Attacks

Incomplete reports, Moscow said, revealed that more than 2,000 Germans and Hungarians had been killed and another 750 captured in a series of futile counter-attacks which failed to keep the Soviet third Ukrainian army from cutting the rail line at several points on the southern shores of Lake Balaton and capturing the key communications hub of Szigetvar, 13 miles from the Yugoslav border.

Further south the Russians advanced 13 miles along the northern bank of the Drava river to seize several towns and villages including some important rail points.

Overrun 120 Towns

In the fighting which engulfed Szigetvar, the red army forces overran more than 120 other towns and villages and to the west of captured Nagybaljon came nearest the Austrian border.

(The Swiss radio quoted a "British correspondent in Moscow" as stating that Soviet tanks had swept to the Austrian border but there was no confirmation of the report from any other source.)

In the drive to the southeastern shore of Lake Balaton the Russians captured the port of Balatonboglár and numerous other towns and villages.

A Moscow communique said the Germans were ruthlessly destroying towns, public utilities and churches as they retreated toward the Austrian border.

forces were reported dropping home-made bombs from structures which they held.

(Rome dispatches said the British admitted having to evacuate a number of police stations in Athens.)

(Other reports reaching Rome said that a number of Greek naval officers and civilians had been abducted by the Elías whose troops were said to be moving on Athens from the surrounding countryside.)

(British troops intervened in sporadic fighting between the police and the Elías and between the Left and Right Wingers to prevent bloodshed. The British were reported to have suffered "some casualties" when the Left Wing forces fired into a civilian prison where alleged collaborators were being held.)

Center Of Action

The fighting raged principally in the neighborhood of Adrian's Arch and the temple of the Olympian Zeus.

Flares dropped over Athens during the night disclosed the movement of Elías forces. In the glare of searchlights mounted on tanks, British paratroopers ousted Elías fighters from the Polytechnic school near the center of the capital.

A government communique said "British and Greek regular forces have gone into action to support the civil power."

British tanks and armored cars so far have used only machine guns in their efforts to restore order.

The crossings were made in the face of considerable fire from German small arms.

Report Saarbrücken Aflame

South of Saarbrücken, which was reported aflame as a result of continual American artillery bombardment, the Yanks sent spearheads fighting into the outskirts of Saargemündes.

Only light opposition was encountered by the Americans, troops of the 35th Infantry Division, from small arms and mortars as they pushed into the outskirts of the Sarreguemines.

The Sixth armored division pushed ahead to within a mile and one half of Sarreguemines from due west while another column of the 35th approached the city from the southeast.

The Germans yielded ground in the entire sector of the front back toward the adjacent German frontier as the 35th at one point made a dash of seven miles, moving to within three miles southeast of Sarreguemines.

The Fourth armored division at the same time struck to points eight miles southeast of Sarreguemines while the 26th Infantry moved six miles due south, beyond Sarlabé.

the guns didn't fire at all, this was the gist of their stories and while they mired in some G. I. humor in their accounts, the grim truth stuck out.

Captain William Scott, late of Merrill's Marauders in the India-Burma-China theatre of war introduced the four veterans from the Aachen front, Sergeant Stanley Palka, Pfc. Steve Janekci and Pfc. Mel Byrne were introduced and each spoke. Each of them told of their surprise and delight at being sent back to the States after their long tours of duty in Europe and each of them pleaded for more and more ammunition.

C. Chairman

Ernest C. Schlusser, vice president in charge of operations for Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation and Clark H. Johnson, plant superintendent for United Engineering and Foundry Company acted as co-chairmen of the evening.

Rev. Thomas J. Jones, pastor of First Congregational church delivered the invocation and Ernie Young, a prestidigitator entertained the crowd with some tricks of magic. The balance of the program was given over to the "Firepower for Eisenhower" team.

One of the veterans present, Pfc. Steve Janekci of Ambridge, had the pleasure of seeing his family in the dinner group. His mother, Mrs. Catherine Janekci, his sister Miss Helen Janekci, a brother Pfc. John Janekci and another brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Janekci were the guests of the industries sponsoring the dinner and were given a rousing welcome by the guests present.

Other special guests were: Col. R. L. Dunkel, Major William S. Rial, Lt. A. J. Koskie, Lt. O. S. Gause, Lt. H. R. Lesnik, all of the Pittsburgh Ordnance bureau, Treasurer Hays of the Oliver Iron and Steel was also a guest.

Earlier in the day the Aachen veterans held a press conference in the hotel, had attended a luncheon at noon and a welcoming exercise on the post office steps. Today they visit the Oliver Iron and Steel Corporation plant in West Pittsburgh and tonight attend another rally in the plant and are guests at a dinner and reception held in their honor at the Armando Diaz Hall.

The rally scheduled for the Oliver Iron & Steel Corporation in West Pittsburgh at 10 o'clock this morning was changed to 2 and another rally at 4 in the plant.

gun, which is considered in the light artillery classification, would fire in one day at the slow rate 2,880 shells and they would weigh 164,190 pounds.

The 155MM. Howitzer and the heavy 155 gun can each discharge in prolonged fire one shot a minute or three a minute in short bursts. Therefore, at the slow rate of fire one of those guns would use up 1,440 rounds of ammunition. The projectiles for the Howitzer weigh 114 pounds each. For the gun or long cannon 138 pounds each. The shells for one Howitzer in one day of slow fire would weigh 164,190 pounds. Those for the gun would weigh 213,120 pounds.

Some Idea Of Gigantic Need

The heavy 240 . . . Howitzer is slow or prolonged fire can shoot one projectile every four minutes. In short bursts one every two minutes. The shells for this monster weigh 430 pounds each. At the slow rate of fire it would discharge 360 projectiles a day which would weigh 154,800 pounds.

Now remember your author has only been talking of the number of shells and their weight required for one gun. In the case of the 75MM. just multiply that by four to get the figures for one battery which is the smallest unit of artillery. There are twenty-four 155MM. guns in one regiment. Divisions, corps and armies have field artillery and coast artillery units. You would be astounded if you could know the number of pieces of artillery which are now in battle operation in France.

Think it over—to win the war our armed forces must have the ammunition and immediately.

WANT CIGS, BUY BONDS

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—(INS)—An Oakland tobacco store dealer today planned to do something about the slump in the sale of E bonds.

Saturday afternoon, he announced, he will give away a carton of cigarettes to each purchaser of a $500 bond and a pack to each purchaser of a $100 bond.

But here's the best news of all—the store owner, Jack Dines, will guarantee to sell a package of cigarettes daily to $25 bond purchasers.

They Dream Of Home

Soon it will be Christmas and American boys all over the world would like to come home. Meanwhile—

An American boy is slowly cutting his way through a tangled jungle. Each step forward is three feet down; the mud sucks and pulls at his boots as he advances, tortured step after step. He brushes insects from his eyes to peer into the dense jungle masses ahead and at either side, alert for Japanese snipers. He reaches a fallen tree, stops to rest, closes his eyes a few seconds. Into his mind comes a picture of crowded sidewalks. It's five o'clock; Christmas shoppers and workers hurry through the streets; he hears the tinkling bell of a Salvation Army Santa Claus; for a moment he smells the crisp, cold air and feels the glow from the bright store windows. . . . A bullet whines past him.

Somewhere in Germany, a boy from Pennsylvania is fighting from house to house in the rubble-strewn streets. As he advances cautiously, waiting for the next shot from ahead or behind, he ducks into a doorway. For a second, he relaxes. The snow on the rubble suddenly becomes a picture of snow-covered Pennsylvania hills, quiet, peaceful, serene. He sees his town, snow feathering the elms, candles shining in windows, awaiting the Christmas carolers who are singing at the far end of the street.

On a hillside in northern Italy, a kid from Chicago considers himself lucky. He won't have to dig a foxhole tonight. He crawls into a small cave, out of the bitter wind. As he falls asleep exhausted, he hears the wind howling around the rocks. It sounds like the wind roaring off Lake Michigan and he dreams he's back home. The Christmas tree lights are on and Mom and Pop are sitting around listening to Sis play "Silent Night."

In the Pacific, hundreds of miles from anywhere, a boy from Kansas peers into the night. Since the Jap attack that morning, his sub is disabled, it barely moves in the water, no one dares think how long it can keep afloat. No one knows whether the next planes will be rescue planes—or the Jap planes returning. The surge of the sea, continuous, incessant, becomes a wheat field, the waves of ripe grain rising and falling as the wind ripples over them.

What are we doing at home? What discomfort have we? Are we cold? Are we hungry? Are we homeless? Or are we deciding to make this an old-fashioned luxurious Christmas?

How many of the simplest things we are asked to do are we doing? Are we saving waste paper? Collections are at an all-time low. Are we saving waste food? Even red points in exchange no longer bring in the necessary amount. Are we contributing blood to the Red Cross bank? Many appointments made are never kept; more appointments are never made. Are we buying more war bonds? Redemptions are higher than ever before.

Production has been falling in war plants. Absenteeism is high. There are still strikes, for whatever reason, justifiable or not in peace time, the excuses don't sound so good right now. Our obligations, our responsibilities to our boys all over the world are weighty.

If the Japs return to the kill, will the Kansas kid have the ammunition to save them off again? Will the rescue planes not come because they're still in the factories? Will the barrage preceding the boy in Cologne fall silent, because the batteries are out of shells? Will the kid on the hills of Italy freeze to death in his cave because he has no blanket to wrap around him? Will the boy in Burma die because we didn't buy enough war bonds at home?

All of us in our hearts know whether we are doing our share; whether we are fulfilling our moral obligations to the millions of Americans scattered around the world in a struggle for survival—theirs and ours.

Youth And Irresponsibility

After a survey of private employment agencies in large cities of the country, a prominent insurance company reported, as one of the poll's findings, that the wartime job situation "has spoiled youthful employees to the point of making them irresponsible and demanding, and lowering their efficiency."

But the important part of the report, as far as youthful employees are concerned, is the forecast that such young persons face difficulties in adjusting themselves and in making good in normal postwar competition.

Of course, not all young persons come under the general category of the irresponsible, demanding and inefficient—even in this lush wartime job situation—but those who fall into that classification undoubtedly are due for a struggle when postwar days arrive.

The survey showed that already war veterans are being favored where possible by most employers, although it is pointed out that some veterans have difficulties, too, such as young men who went into the services directly from school and assumed responsibilities of military commands and now find it difficult to start on the same level with inexperienced help in civilian life.

Young employees who permit themselves, in these days of job abundance, to become irresponsible and inefficient might well be told that it is they, themselves, who must suffer when present conditions shift back to normal. It will not be possible for them to acquire suddenly the qualities of discipline, obedience and efficiency which they neglected to develop during war boom days.

Their failure to possess those advantages will put them at quite a discount in the eyes of any employer. When attention is called to their weaknesses, they will suffer many a pang of regret. For their own good, they would do well at the present time to acquire day by day those qualities of mind and will which the world invariably admires and respects.

Usually the more intelligent a conversation is the less there is of conversation.

Now if you hear any rustling noises around it may be the fifth term beginning to sprout.

President Roosevelt has run for President as many times as William Jennings Bryan did—but with more effect.

Who of us older folks ever expected to see the time when mother and big sister would be worried about a cigarette shortage?

Stalin Insisting Big Three Meet Near Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—One of the reasons advanced for the delay in holding the big three conference is that Stalin insists the meeting be held either in Moscow or at some point close to the Soviet borders—perhaps Teyheran again. The Soviet's No. 1 does feel very strongly that he must be at the end of a telephone wire which will make instant communication with Moscow possible. He is extremely reluctant to go to a city so distant that his line of communication with the Kremlin might be interrupted. The reason for this, however, is not, as some speculation has had it, that he is afraid he might be superseded by a palace revolt. Those who know Russia intimately regard this as an impossibility. But as the active director of the Russian forces in the field, Stalin must be in constant communication with his generals.

Sideline of Conference

One interesting sidelight on the Teheran conference has never been disclosed. The big three, flanked by their military and civilian aides, held their meetings during the day in the sprawling Soviet embassy in Teheran. There were several formal dinners at which the heads of state made speeches and toasted each other. No matter how exhausted the conference of how, late in the evening, Stalin would afterward get on the long distance phone with Moscow and often talk for hours. Sometimes the dawn would find him in discussion with his subordinates in the Kremlin.

This is the reason Roosevelt and Churchill may concede to Stalin's wishes and go to a rendezvous of Stalin's choosing. They recognize that no decision can be made in the Soviet Union of any importance that is not approved by the former Georgian peasant who bears the title of marshal.

The roster of those who will go to the next meeting is very similar to that of Teheran. The wise and gentle counsel of the late Field Marshal Sir John Dill will be missed. The next successor, Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, is expected to go in Dill's place. Wilson is shortly to arrive in Washington as head of the British joint staff mission.

In Roosevelt Party

General Marshall, Admiral King, Harry L. Hopkins and the president's own chief of staff, Admiral William Leahy, will again be members of the Roosevelt party, as will also in all probability the new secretary of state, Edward R. Stettinius Jr. Hopkins' wife, the former Louise Macy, is just beginning to recover from a serious illness. It is believed she will be sufficiently recovered by the time the conference is held so that Hopkins will be able to plan a long absence without apprehension over her condition. The next conference is expected to last considerably longer than the one a year ago. Decisions will not be reached so easily. There may be some stormy weather before the big three put their signatures to a document of agreement.

Roosevelt will go thoroughly briefed and ready to state the American position on every question which the conference faces. Once having made up his mind, he is not likely to give very much ground.

Must Face Issues

At Teheran, certain big issues came to the surface only to be pushed into the background again. This time they must be faced. For example, at Teheran Roosevelt and Stalin agreed on a plan of trusteeships for certain colonial peoples. Earlier, at the Cairo conference, Chiang Kai-shek had also approved the plan, which originated with the president. It calls for ultimate independence for subject peoples under trustees representing interested nationalities. But Churchill would not hear this discussed at all. He brushed it aside as irrelevant.

The fact that settlement of such issues was put off will make it all the more difficult to get some sort of agreement this time. With victory near, there will seem little reason to make concessions.

Yet Roosevelt will be stubborn. Those who are helping him prepare for the coming conference believe he will insist on agreement on the big issues that will shape the postwar world, and agreement not too far out of line with the American position.

MAN'S GIFT

They tell us man was made to mourn.
And earn his bread.
To rise for toll at early dawn,
Go late to bed.

But did he nothing more than feast.
From purpose free.
Then little better than the beast
Would mortal be

But God gave him the gifts of dream
And thought and prayer.
And love of sky and field and stream
And all things fair.

God fashioned man high goals to gain.
Know false from true
And, spite of care and grief and pain,
Great works to do.

Activity back of a small idea will produce more than inactivity and the undeveloped plans of the wisest men.

It is axiomatic that a man gets out of life only what he puts into it. The world owes no one any more than he is willing and able to give. Failure or success is each based on what a man has done.

"Oh John," said a middle-aged woman to her rather hen-pecked husband, "you ought to be thankful you are married. I see statistics show that the lives of married men are longer than those of bachelors. Do you believe it is true?" "No," replied the husband resignedly, "they only seem longer."

The lazier a man is the more he complains about the dull times.

More married life is ruined by nagging than by flagrant acts of inconstancy. Many a pillar of the church who has never looked at another woman with more than the coldest indifference has wrecked the nerves of his devoted wife by repeated sarcasm. Many a paragon of wifely virtue has driven her husband to more amiable women by repeatedly picking at him, either facetiously or seriously. These annoyances are especially resented when perpetrated in the presence of guests. And guests are not likely to repeat a visit to the home of a nagging husband or a nagging wife. It is the habit of some husbands and wives to treat each other with perfect amiability when they are together but to gain courage for sniping each other only when visitors are with them.

If kindness and mutual respect prevail between a wedded pair, this cannot happen.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE JAPS ALSO

The Germans have broadcasted for a long time what they are going to do, eventually, with their secret weapons. Well, so far they have developed a robot rocket bomb of two dimensions, the first one a little better than the second one. The second one carries more destruction with it, but is not calculated to devastate much territory except that immediately about its point of contact. It is a devilish device, but as yet lacks control, so there is no telling when it is going to be launched. Just where it is going to land, so far, it has only been successful in killing and wounding civilians and not reaching any war objective.

Now, while the Japanese Navy is taking a bad beating and the Japanese air forces are slowly being eliminated, the propagandists of the Rising Sun are building up the home morale by a pair of "new and terrible secret weapons."

One of these weapons is described by Tokyo Radio as "oriental fear tactics," a weapon something beyond the control of attack commanders themselves. This particular brand of fear, it seems, is inculcated by "suicide daredevils" who confound the enemy by "body-crashing tactics" of Nipponese air-men.

The other is a little more technical. It is the "projecting of their dauntless spirits" through the air in order to instill dire terror into the enemy before the battle begins. This device, we learn, destroys inside the foe the entire will to fight.

Thus far, we have not seen concrete evidence of the effectiveness of either of these mysterious weapons. The trouble seems to be that our unsentimental, hard-headed Yanks simply don't appreciate a good secret weapon when they meet it.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD WHO COMMITS THEFTS

There are a few children whose parents deliberately teach them to steal; still more whose parents, unaware, teach their children to steal by their own example. We hardly should expect either group of these children to acquire a reasonable degree of honesty.

Then there is another group of parents, still large we hope, who try very hard to be upright citizens themselves but find their children drifting into stealing. These parents are worried; some of them are heartbroken. Many of them write me of their problems. Usually it is about the child from seven to twelve; sometimes of older ones; now and then it is of a high school son or daughter.

For years, summer camp counselors have been worried with this problem. Any commanding officer in a military camp can tell you of his distress over petty theft by one soldier from another. So can almost any foreman in a factory concerning small tools. Moreover, any neighborhood merchant can tell you of the prevalence of shop-lifting.

As a rule the older the child who steals, the harder the problem is to solve. I have written a special bulletin for parents, "Honesty and Truthfulness," to be had for postage in a self-addressed stamped envelope sent to me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City.

Stealing and lying, which goes with it, usually begins at home and in the early years. Certainly the hope of cultivating honesty and truthfulness is in good home guidance and relationship. These involve wise restraint and wise understanding, companionship and love.

Beginning in the early years, we need to train the child to be careful of his own things and the things about the house, being careful ourselves to protect his possessions. We need to teach him early the meaning of No, in an atmosphere of affection, so that he feels worthy in the family group, feels he is loved as much as others there.

Deliberate theft is practice in deceit. Practically it reveals something not quite healthy in the feelings and attitudes of the child in his family, especially toward his parents. Now when we parents proceed to place the child suspected of theft on trial, we tempt him to lie and thus to deceive us further in his effort to conceal his earlier deed.

We are at a loss when we are able to shield him from temptation too hard for him to withstand, and to set the stage so he won't feel the need of deceiving us but will gain increasing satisfaction from respecting the rights of others. We should try to build up his self-regard and desire to win the esteem of others, especially others in the family group. How can a child who has started stealing, be able to quit the practice without feeling he is truly loved and understood?

Our chief difficulty with the child who steals is that we get all worked up over it and surround him with a cloud of suspicion and a feeling we can never forget the fact. Nor is it easy for us to keep our attention off his past thefts and put our hopes and faith in the future. It is hard for us to help the child escape the "thief" label and help him look hopefully ahead.

Prices Won't Change After European Victory
General Wage Increases Also Taboo For Time
War Needs Are Shelving Reconversion Talks

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Out of the dense, swirling fog of uncertainty, the administration's price-wage policy for VE (Victory in Europe) day and after is beginning to emerge. The outline looks like this:

1—Prices are to be nailed down where they are by iron-fisted controls until a return to civilian production has restored a normal supply-demand relationship in each price-controlled commodity.

2—General wage increases are to be taboo until a relaxation of war production after VE-day knocks out great chunks of overtime and drastically reduces the total "take home" wages of workers.

This will mean, so far as prices are concerned, that every effort will be made to keep prices where they are while controls are in effect. Then controls will be relaxed, and prices will be allowed to find their own level, commodity by commodity, when resumption of civilian production has restored a normal supply of the commodity.

Admits Living Rise

This may take a long time, particularly in some commodities. It will mean extension of the price and wage control laws by the coming Congress, when the Democratic "working majority" in the House will stand the administration in good stead.

In the cost-of-living report by War Labor Board Chairman William H. Davis, the administration virtually admits that living costs have gone up 29 to 30 per cent since January 1, 1941.

But the administration will cling to the "Little Steel" wage freeze formula until VE-day on the grounds that overtime in numerous cases more than makes up the difference between 15 and 30 per cent.

At least, this appears to be the overall policy as laid down by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson. It is admittedly economic tight-rope walking.

Caught in the middle are the white-collar workers not receiving overtime.

Do not look for much talk in administration circles of reconversion in the next few weeks. The reason is that top officials are shelving reconversion for the time being and are placing every emphasis on supplying Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower with artillery ammunition and other equipment.

War Mobilizer James P. Byrnes, who is also in charge of reconversion, regards this as his primary job at the present time, and he is concentrating on the big guns overseas to the exclusion of almost everything else.

Editor Turns Newsboy

One of Washington's veteran top-notch political writers took the recent presidential campaign seriously—so much so that as a sidelight of democracy action in base Washington—which is worthless—it is well worth telling.

This newsman, who may as well be identified at once as Arthur Hachten, night editor of International News Service in the nation's capital, wanted his young son—a grammar school pupil—to be fully aware of the significant events climaxed by the fourth term re-election of President Roosevelt.

Hachten carefully explained to the young man how the electoral college system operated, briefly outlined the campaign issues and announced that he wanted the boy to hear the broadcast campaign appeal of the presidential candidates the Saturday night before election.

But this brought complications. The youngster had to rise early to cover his newspaper delivery route. The radio speeches would keep him up late the night before.

Mrs. Hachten was concerned about his threatened lack of sleep. So dad made a deal. He agreed that if the boy could stay up to hear Mr. Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, he would help him deliver his newspapers in the pre-dawn hours of the following morning.

And that was one campaign promise that really was kept.

What People Say

(International News Service)

ROME—Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander-in-chief of the 12th Mediterranean Air Force: "The fear of falling bombs, broken rail lines, burning and broken factories, short rations, short ammunition and fuel, starvation and a hiding, skulking and beaten air force—this must be the lot of our enemy from now on without intermission."

WASHINGTON—Adm. Ernest J. King, U. S. Fleet commander-in-chief: "Japanese capacity to maintain the war at sea and in her advanced areas has progressively suffered, due to the loss of vital shipping. These circumstances in the Pacific theater present a situation which must be as dark and threatening to Japan as it is full of promise to us."

LONDON—Prof. A. M. Low, famous British rocket expert: "It's within the bounds of possibility that the Germans could launch a rocket shell across the Atlantic, but it's so extremely unlikely that I don't think anyone on that side of the ocean should bother much about it."

NEW YORK—Capt. Eddie Rickbacker, commenting on American retention of foreign air bases after the war: "We're spending billions on other people's property, and if we get nothing else out of it we should have the right to use those facilities after the war."

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

I read an item in my paper which is attributed to Vice President-elect Truman.

The election being over I am not criticizing anyone on political grounds, but if the story is true, I don't like it.

Mr. Truman, the story goes, was asked whether he didn't think that something should be done to ease the cigarette shortage.

"I don't smoke," he is supposed to have answered, "so I don't care." This hasn't anything to do with the merits or evils of cigarette smoking.

But I certainly don't think anyone should shake the attitude that whatever he doesn't do himself is of no interest to him.

What a world this would be if all of us were interested only in our own concerns and problems!

And yet, come to think of it, don't most of us live simply for ourselves and those who are of immediate interest to us?

Just be truthful with yourself and see how much that you do is done for yourself alone and how much of it considers your fellow man.

This morning there was a glorious sunrise outside. My wife had been up late last night and was fast asleep.

Want Someone to Share It

But I admired that sunrise, and when you enjoy something you want someone to share it with you.

So I woke her up. She dutifully admired the sunrise but I could tell that she wasn't one bit interested in anything but sleep.

She got up—and has been in bed humor all day.

See what I mean? Often selfishness can be well meant and may pose as ill-placed kindness.

How often have you complained about a shortage of this or that?

I don't have to fight, so I don't care.

We live in a world where we are dependent upon each other.

Would you deny a starving man a meal just because you have dined well?

Workers Urged To Check On Social Security Accounts

Penny Postcard Form Available At Social Security Office For Free Statement

How much do you know about your Social Security Account?

Have you checked recently the total amount of payments made by you and your employer? Are you and your dependents thoroughly informed regarding methods of obtaining Social Security benefits should you die?

Most workers have money deducted from their pay checks for Social Security benefit purposes, but many rarely make a regular checkup to make certain they are receiving full credit. For this reason Edward J. Sinder, manager of the New Castle office of the Social Security board today suggested to workers that they make a checkup at least once a year so that they or their survivors will receive all the money that is due them upon retirement at age 65 or at death.

"Whether workers will receive full benefits at the time they are entitled to them, depends on the accuracy of the records of contributions by employee and employer," Mr. Sinder said.

Workers who should be the most particular about making such checkups, he said, are those who move from one job to another at frequent intervals.

An easy method is provided by the Social Security Board to make the checkups, Mr. Sinder explained. A free-addressed, post card form may be obtained at the New Castle Social Security office. The card needs only a one-cent stamp and is addressed to the Social Security Board, Candier Bldg., Baltimore, Md. Persons desiring to check up are required to give their account numbers, birth dates, names and addresses, he said.

COLDS

Colds are contagious. They are passed from person to person.

A person having a cold may infect many other people. He does it by coughing, sneezing, shaking hands, handling food or dishes in other ways.

A teacher or child with a cold may infect all the others in the school room.

Colds cause more absences from work and school than any other disease.

The only way to keep from catching a cold is to keep away from the person who has it.

People who have a cold should try to keep from spreading it to others.

Pittsburgh Considers Tax On Wages In City

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5.—(INS)—Mayor Cornelius D. Scully said today he will seek enabling legislation to permit Pittsburgh's city council to consider new methods of taxation, including a tax on all wages and salaries earned in the city.

Although refusing to commit himself for or against a wage levy that would hit residents and non-residents alike, the mayor said:

"A wage tax is not the final answer, but it would help solve the financial problems of our city."

The wage tax is among several methods suggested by the Pennsylvania Economy League to free Pittsburgh of its financial strait-jacket.

"SO SORRY, NIPS YOU'RE BLOCKING THE ROAD!"

Americans who buy Bonds are opening the road, too!

To crush Japan, our men must have planes, tanks, ships, guns in vast amounts—B-29's at $600,000 each, P-47's at $50,000, M-4 tanks at $67,417—it's up to us to help pay for them. It will cost plenty to fight Japan—remember, it is still 3,850 miles from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo . . . and Tokyo is where we've got to go! So buy War Bonds—every Bond you buy helps give our men what it takes to fight this war—and win!

Open the homeward-bound road right now in the 6th War Loan Drive—buy at least an extra $100 worth of Bonds. That way you'll save and serve!

Few Details Of Prison Revolt At Atlanta Revealed

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 6.—(INS)—A tight lid of censorship today obscured developments in a revolt at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, where approximately 25 long term convicts seized four prison officers and barricaded themselves in the prison's segregation building.

The bare facts of the uprising yesterday were disclosed in a statement by Warden Joseph W. Sanford, who indicated the trouble started because the convicts refused to be incarcerated in the same buildings with other inmates they termed "German saboteurs and spies."

James V. Bennett, Federal director of prisons, was visiting the institution when the outbreak occurred. With Warden Sanford, he appealed to the convicts to release the four officials, but the orders were defied.

Bennett identified the hostages as Reno H. Townsend, Olin Harper, John W. Bacon and Henry B. Pitlikow.

Whether the revolting convicts were armed was not revealed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—(INS)—Morris Fisher, operator of a West Philadelphia drug store, expected a rush in business today, and well he might.

Fisher has set aside his entire stock of 2,500 cartons of cigarettes for sale to persons purchasing war bonds in his store and a nearby theater. Ten salesmen will be on hand to deal out one carton of smokes to each bond purchaser.

TIME FOR CAR INSPECTION!

Car inspectors are the civilian top-sergeants who bring time-worn cars up to par. The average car now is over eight years old. War-time wear—plus age—means that you must be more alert than ever to keep your car rolling. Car inspection will help you to do this.

YOUR CAR MUST BE INSPECTED BY JANUARY 31, 1945. There will be no extension of this period. Get in early and have the job done. Waiting until the last days of this period may mean that you will be unable to drive your car because you lack the official inspection sticker.

TRANSPORTATION MUST NOT FAIL. It will not fail if you cooperate by getting your car inspected—and inspected early. Pennsylvania is counting on you.

CAR INSPECTION TODAY IS AN ECONOMIC REQUIREMENT AS WELL AS A WISE SAFETY PRECAUTION. STICK BY YOUR STICKER!

Rockets Become Major Implement Of U. S. Warfare

Designed On Same Principle As Nazi V-2, Rockets Aided Landings In Europe, Asia

By JOHN A. REICHMANN (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—American rockets, designed on the same principle as Germany's vaunted V-2, have become a major implement of U. S. warfare and have aided in landings both in Europe and the far east, the army and navy reported today.

From meagre early experiments, made long before Berlin even began to talk of 'his revolutionary war development, both branches of the service have now developed these implements to a point where they get a highest priority both in materials and manpower.

Navy To Spend 100 Million
So important has the rocket become in the minds of military strategists who have seen operations under extreme conditions of warfare that the navy will be spending about 100 million dollars a month on their manufacture in 1945, a survey of rocket production prepared by the Office of War Information said.

The army, it was reported, also will spend about 12 million dollars monthly for rocket ammunition alone in 1945, it was said.

The OWI survey did not mention the possibility of the United States forces using anything comparable to the V-2. It merely stated that the army and navy have not 'officially reported' any American rocket of similar performance. It noted, though, that not all facts on U. S. development have been reported.

Must Be More Accurate
The survey also points out that much must be done in developing the rocket for accuracy before it becomes as useful as heavy artillery in pinpoint shooting.

However, it points to these achievements for the weapon:

1. It played a prominent part in North African operations when, under the popular name "bazooka" it proved fatal to enemy tanks when employed by ground forces.

2. Army aircraft rockets used against ground targets, including armored vehicles, trains, locomotives and airfield installations, aided materially in the Carenten breakthrough.

3. Heavy damage was done to Jap installations in the China-Burma-India theater by rockets launched from fighter planes.

4. The navy for the past two years has effectively used rockets against enemy submarines and employed them generously in amphibious operations in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, Kwajalein, Eniwetok and Guam. They were used to blast out machine guns and other defensive positions at the moment troops hit the beach.

5. Both navy and marine planes have used rockets for attacks on other positions in the far east, including Saipan, Iwo, Palau, Woleai, Hollandia and Truk.

Aside from the simple anti-tank bazooka, which could readily be carried and fired by two infantrymen, several new types have been developed. One of the most powerful is the m8, a 4.5 inch rocket which is estimated as equal in punch to a 105 mm medium artillery gun.

Its advantage lies in the fact that it weighs only 38 pounds while its launched weights between 35 and 40 pounds, against the 105's 12 tons. The rocket launcher costs about $104 while a complete 105 gun costs $8,406.

DeMille Refuses To Pay to "Act"

CECIL B. DEMILLE, notified that he would be barred from the air unless he pays $1 million assessment, has indicated he would give up broadcasting rather than pay. The radio and film producer, whose salary is $5,000 a week for the Lux Radio theater, said, "Such grave issues are involved, I consider it a duty to forego the money rather than pay one single dollar in a political tribute." The assessment was to oppose a proposed state law to ban the closed shop.

Hitler Battles For Last Hold On French Area

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY ALONG THE SAAR FRONT, Dec. 6.—Along the fringes of the former mandated Saar territory and behind Strasbourg, Hitler is fighting today for his last footholds in France.

But even that strip is slipping mile by mile from his grip and soon the entire German borderland will be set ablaze from Holland to Switzerland.

One German retreat from France has been already completed, that of the German civilian population which fled in the face of the third army advance.

Soon after the 1940 incorporation of Alsace and Lorraine into greater Germany, the Nazis paraded thousands upon thousands of transplanted Volksturm settlers from as far off as the Volga and Baltic regions which were forcibly taken over from France for Germanization.

The natives of Lorraine and Alsace did not have much choice. Today hundreds of these villages have been freed. Another hundred or so remain in German hands at the very moment, but under the whip-crack of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler every German civilian has gone back into the fatherland.

Left behind in increasing numbers in the Alsace region are French and foreign laborers.

Able bodied men at almost every place complain that the Germans before leaving, stage intense efforts to persuade them to join the German army and that they frequently collared batches of young men. Numerous others fled into hiding.

The result is that the advancing troops of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton in the Saar basin area often find themselves enthusiastically greeted on entering a newly conquered village, even though it may have been partly destroyed.

In larger towns, such as Moolange, St. Avold and Sarre Union, there has been a mixed reception and subsequently almost as many pro-Nazi elements as pro-allied persons have been exposed. Although black looks and freequently sullen attitudes are encountered in some sectors on the fringes of the Saar, only one or two suspicious incidents sufficiently serious to warrant investigation have taken place.

Not a single civilian pro-Nazi has fired a shot or thrown even a potato masquerading behind the lines. Every care is taken, however, to safeguard American troops against snipers in the dark. Any doubtful leftover civilians are isolated quickly.

In evacuating France, German nationals loaded everything they could move of their personal possessions into horse-drawn carts. The evacuees have filled the roadways in recent weeks while streaming back as Reich pilgrims in reverse.

In addition, reports will be submitted by the entertainment committee on the recent activities of the organization.

Secret Deliveries Of Cigaretts Urged

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. — (INS) — Cigaret jobbers were advised today by a suburban Oak Park drugist: not only to come in the back way, but to disguise their deliveries. He explained:

"Last week a jobber drove up and walked into the front with an armload of cartons. My store was crowded in about one minute with everybody clamoring for a pack of cigarettes. In about 30 minutes I was sold out—not a puff left for regular customers. And, boy, did they kick."

AROUND CITY HALL

Public Safety Director D. O. Davies and Director of streets and Public Improvements James Gibson this afternoon were enroute to Harrisburg to join Mayor John F. Haven and Directors J. D. Alexander and A. A. Hoyland at the annual convention of Cities of The Third Class.

Captain of police (who heads the detective force) Willis G. McMullen today was in charge of police owing to the illness of Chief of police Robert D. Hanna. Chief Hanna has been confined to his residence several days having a mild congestion of his lungs.

Automobiles of Mike Yanul, Electric street and Anthony Naples home on furlough from the Navy, had a slight accident in Pearson street yesterday. No persons were injured. Yanul was driving toward Washington street and Naples had driven from that thoroughfare into Pearson street.

W. A. Moore, city controller, is auditing accounts of the various departments of the city for the first 11 months of 1944. Within the near future it will be possible to have a check on the cost and operation of various phases of the city's government operation.

Q. What makes the eye so unique?

Ans. It is the only tissue in the entire body through which ordinary light passes.

Q. What interferes with the passage of light through the eye.

Ans. Cataracts, and other disorders.

Q. Just what is a cataract?

Ans. That condition in which the lens inside the eye undergoes a physical change so that light will not pass through it, the lens loses its transparency, and hence there is a diminution of vision.

Q. What causes cataract?

Ans. Diabetes, near sightedness, injury, old age, extreme ocular disturbances, eyestrain, etc., etc., hot metal, hot glass, the sun.

Q. Is there any cure for cataract?

Ans. There is no cure for cataract—with one exception: the type of cataract caused by diabetes has been known to recover under insulin therapy. Some cataracts have been known to cure spontaneously. It may require years for a cataract to ripen before operating, or it may occur overnight. The drug diotin has been used with little success and much discomfort to the patient.

AMMUNITION for GI's is now canned like their K-rations and the can opener, symbol of the newlywed, has gone to war. Playing the leading roles are James Trusel and Dorothy Ferree. Ralph Jordan as the eccentric millionaire, also is promising to polish off the role. Others in the cast are Joseph Myers, Dale Mackey, Jean McElwain, Rose Mary Allison, Clair Book, Florence Kelly, Margaret Hawke, Corabelle Stickel and Howard McConnell.

More War Workers Needed At Once

Lieut. Gen. Somervell Declares
That At Least 300,000 More
Are Required

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. — (INS) — Warning that the war against Japan alone will be one of the biggest in the history of this country, Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell declared today that at least 300,000 more war workers are needed immediately to bring the nation's production program up to schedule.

Speaking to 4,000 industrialists at the opening session of the war and reconversion congress of American industry, the commanding general of the Army Service Forces, reported soberly:

"This is the most important speech I have ever made, and if I fail to get this situation across to you and these workers, I will have failed all America—the 12,000,000 in the armed forces and the 10 times that number on the home front.

"Munitions are not being made as fast as munitions are being used. Not all war production is lagging, but 27 per cent of all the programs are in the critical category."

Unless the home front "throws all its weight uncompromisingly behind war production right now," he continued, tomorrow will find "your sons and your brothers and your husbands" risking their lives "because the people at home let them down."

Quiet In Roer Area Preceding Crucial Battle

By FRANK CONNIFF
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY AT THE ROER RIVER, Dec. 6.—Just a maslin pitch from where these notes are written lies the western perimeter of the "last battlefield" that may seal the fate of Hitlerite Germany.

At the moment all is quiet along the Roer. GI's wash their socks, polish their weapons or merely bask in the wan December sunlight less than 100 yards from buildings behind which German soldiers possibly are doing the same thing.

Occasionally a Yank rifleman leisurely lifts his gun and now and then you can see white puffs from American shells bursting over Julich.

German batteries, aware that three cub planes drone overhead, have been silent for several hours. But the peaceful atmosphere is deceptive. At any moment one of the most critical struggles of the war may shatter the make-shift armistice imposed on the two armies by the rampaging waters of the Roer.

To reach the "last battlefield" west of the Rhine described by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower this army first must cross the bloated, swiftly-flowing stream which today provides the Wehrmacht with a temporary respite.

From an artillery observation post near the river's edge I could look into Julich and the vicinity and glimpse some of the bustling defenses the Germans have prepared to halt any attempted crossings.

With Corp. William Norwig of Wilkes Barre, Pa., manipulating the powerful lenses, I could see German soldiers ducking from one pillbox to another.

I saw two Jerries disappear into a haystack which I know will emerge as a machine-gun nest once the Americans get within range.

Julich itself is one vast pillbox. I could see little activity in that town.

Report Payroll Destined For Yanks Stolen

LONDON, Dec. 6. — (INS) — The theft of a $280,000 payroll destined for American troops on the western front, was reported today by the London Daily Herald.

The large sum of money, consisting of small notes sealed in steel boxes, was stolen while in transit in England, the newspaper said.

American military headquarters said it had no information, but U. S. military police were quoted as saying that the money had been stolen, although no details could be given about it.

American police now are engaged in trying to solve how and when the robbery occurred. Police and Federal Bureau of Investigation men were reported carrying out a widespread hunt through towns in southwest England. One ship was said to have been held up in port while inquiries were made.

Would Eliminate Gates At Railroad Crossing Here

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6. — (INS) — The permission of the public utility commission was sought today by the Pennsylvania Railroad company today for discontinuing watchmen and gates at the East Washington street crossing and a warning bell at Produce street intersection in New Castle.

The company proposed having trainmen precede the engines at the intersections as a substitute warning. Traffic volume was said to be so reduced that other safety devices were unnecessary.

Planes Larger Than B-29's Will Be Constructed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — (INS) — The United States, it was revealed today, is constructing planes larger than the man-moth B-29 Superfortress bomber for long-range operations against the Japanese.

This was disclosed in secret congressional testimony made public as some military observers expressed belief that developments in the far eastern theater of war may increasingly overshadow the battles against Germany in coming months due to the possibility that winter may bog down the fighting in Europe.

Nazi Organizations Ordered Dissolved

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. — (INS) — Allied intentions of dissolving all Nazi organizations, impounding their funds and placing their leaders on trial was proclaimed today in the name of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the third of the series of the allied military government broadcasts to the German people.

"Germany and the world are to be rid of national socialism once and for all," said the broadcast, reported by the OWI.

"The party and all its organizations will be dissolved. Party leaders, the rest and all others suspected of complicity in war crimes and atrocities committed on the instigation of the party will be arrested and put on trial. If found guilty after a fair trial, they will be subjected to severe penalties, including, in the worst case, death."

War Bonds should mean something more to you than just "a good sound investment." Figure it out yourself.

Senate Rejects Proposal For Canal Project

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—(INS)—The Senate today by a vote of 52 to 16 rejected the amendment to bring the 38½ million dollar Beaver-Mahoning canal project in Ohio and Pennsylvania into the rivers and harbors bill.

Meanwhile, the Senate moved closer to its major fight on the half billion dollar measure—the effort of Sen. Aiken (R) Vt., to win authorization for the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

As Aiken prepared to offer his amendment he accused seaway opponents of "resorting to all the tricks in the propaganda world."

Sen. Burton (R) O., fought for the Beaver-Mahoning canal, which would form a link in the projected Ohio river-Lake Erie waterway and would immediately benefit eastern Ohio. It would run from the Ohio river to Struthers, O., through the Beaver and Mahoning rivers in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Davis-Guffey Opposed
Sens. Davis (R) and Guffey (D) of Pa., led the opposition, asserting it would not justify the cost.

Sen. Taft (R) O., striking back at the Pennsylvania senators, declared their opposition "really is based on fear it would help the Youngstown steel producers to compete more successfully with Pittsburgh mills."

Also opposing the project as unnecessary was Sen. Robertson (R) Wyo., who has a pending resolution to hold up all waterway projects until the Interstate Commerce Commission rules them necessary from the transportation standpoint.

Huge Supplies For Forces Of Allies Come From U. S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—(INS)—Discussing problems of current war production at a news conference today, Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell revealed that U. S. war production had supplied 25 per cent of the British army, the entire re-constituted French army and a "tremendous part" of the Russian army.

Gen. Somervell said that U. S. industry had more than justified President Roosevelt's promise that this country would be the "arsenal of democracy" but revealed that critical shortages now existed in several categories.

If Your Husband Doesn't Like It, Turn It Inside Out

By LUCY B. TOSTI
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Women will be interested to know that a patent has been asked for a new style reversible hat.

"The chapeau can be worn inside out, upside down, sideways and in approximately 20 different shapes. It has a hole in the top and another in the bottom. A flick of the wrist, and it can be changed from a chic turban to something soft, large and dressy."

Mrs. Klari Halmos, who is responsible for the ingenious invention, fashions hats in her home on West 93rd street.

"One of my customers, a stenographer, asked me why I couldn't whip up a dress hat which could be carried in the subway to the office without getting smashed," Mrs. Halmos said. "She didn't have time to go home and change when she went out in the evening. This is what I came up with."

She put one of the new hats on and in a few minutes had transformed it from a sport beret and turban to an afternoon big bow effect, then to a youthful ditch angle, to an off-the-face style.

JOHN POWERS TELLS WOMEN TO BE NATURAL

Noted Beauty Authority Says Post-War Girl Will Have Scrubbed Look

By MARY M. McAFEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH—John Robert Powers of New York, well known authority on feminine beauty believes the keynote of the post-war girl will be naturalness.

Powers during a recent visit to the Steel City, told International News Service that women must go back to being natural if they expect to be a success with men returning from the war.

"Women must be a contrast to the glamor the soldiers and sailors have seen," the beauty expert said. "Post-war will find the girls more real and down to earth. They will leave all the glamor to Hollywood, where it is canned."

He continued that it was impossible to stress too strongly that a natural woman is a beautiful woman.

"The typical post-war American girl will have that fresh, well-scrubbed look—as if her face had seen lots and lots of soap and water," Powers said. "She'll look like an American Beauty Rose."

When speaking of make-up, the opponent of glamor said:

"Women must learn to 'make-down,' and not make up. Cosmetics are paint and should be used as a painter uses his oils—to make the picture natural; to cover-up defects, not to accentuate them."

Women have only worn slacks lately as a means of dress for efficiency, Powers stated. "They are in the over-all class now. It was a fad, but women have outgrown it. I sincerely believe they will discard wearing slacks or over-alls completely."

The girls and women that have gone into war work will return to their pre-war mode of living and leave the manual jobs to the men, for the type of work is not natural for women, the distinguished looking grey-haired man said, adding:

"The women of this generation are just like their ancestors and will do everything in their power to be attractive. Looks are only skin deep. It is the natural, graceful, poised girl who is really beautiful."

Brussels Is Like City On Holiday

BRUSSELS—(INS)—Brussels looks like a city on holiday. The streets are crowded. There are flags everywhere. The joy of liberation is still in full bloom. British and American soldiers are stopped a dozen times within a block to sign their names in children's autograph books. Vendors with toy balloons, mechanical dogs, picture postcards and flags of all the United Nations are numerous. Street-car conductors refuse to accept fares from Allied soldiers. Comradeship between Allied soldier and Belgian civilian is fantastic. There's a smile on every face.

STRONG VINO

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Military policeman Robert Peel of Homewood, who saw service in North Africa, Sicily, Italy and southern France, said one thing the military police had trouble with was the wine the American soldiers bought to drink. Some of it was diluted with gasoline. "I don't know why water wasn't used," he declared, "but boy! that stuff had a kick."

War Bonds Rate Over Santa Claus Gamble Declares

Only Eleven Days Left To Meet
Fourteen Billion Dollar Quota,
Treasury Points Out

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Ted R. Gamble, national director of the Treasury's war finance division, today appealed to civilians to give war bonds priority over their Christmas shopping.

"We're up against a grimmer business than Santa Claus this year," Gamble declared, pointing out that the Sixth War Loan drive is the first of the bond campaigns to overlap the Christmas season.

"The war finance division appeals to the American people to give the Sixth War Loan drive priority over their Christmas shopping," said Gamble. "Santa Claus can better serve the boys overseas if war bonds are prevalent on his list."

Gamble's plea for civilians to buy more E bonds in the retail stores followed disclosure the Sixth War Loan has passed the halfway mark and reached eight billion, 941 million dollars with only 11 days left to meet the nation's fourteen billion dollar quota. The drive ends December 16.

Of the latest accumulative total on bond sales, Gamble said, corporations purchased six billion, 920 million dollars worth, while individual totals reached two billion, 21 million, of which 871 million dollars were in E bond sales.

In a further effort to offset the holiday problems affecting the war loan drive, Gamble revealed the war finance division is checking individually the employers of over 10 million of the nation's workers for a "cross-section" report on "what sort of a job has been done in those establishments."

Under a recent agreement signed with Great Britain, Canada will supply the United Kingdom with approximately two and a half million board feet of lumber in the first two years after the end of the war in Europe.

Japs' Discovery Used Against Them

Super-Magnetic Alloy Developed By Jap Professor; Now Used In American Radionic Devices

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(INS)—An important Jap metallurgical discovery has bounced back to assist in their destruction, Commander E. F. McDonald, Jr., head of a Chicago radio manufacturing company, reported today.

It is a super-magnetic alloy developed by a Japanese professor at Tokyo Imperial university and is being used to shoot back at the Nips every day, McDonald said. It will lift 60 times its own weight in iron and steel.

The alloy was introduced into this country shortly before the war and now is used by every radionic manufacturer, according to McDonald, who said that, without it, some of our radionic devices would be impossible. He added: "The little yellow Jap is being nicked daily with his own discovery. Our fighters are using it daily to sink Jap ships and knock enemy planes from the skies."

VETERANS SPEAK TO CIVIC CLUBS

Joint Luncheon Is Held At The Castleton At Noon On Tuesday

Sponsored by the Lions Club, the "Firepower for Eisenhower" team presently visiting shell plants in Lawrence County were entertained at a joint civic club luncheon in the Castleton hotel Tuesday at noon. About 125 men were present with Dr. Wilbur Flannery, president of the Lions Club acting as chairman.

Following the luncheon, President Flannery opened the program and introduced Councilman D. O. Davies, who represented Mayor John P. Haven, unable to be present. Said Councilman Davies in part, "This morning I stood on the steps of the post office and shook the hands of four young American soldiers just back from Germany. I took the liberty to speak for every one of you when I welcomed them to our city. These four boys are members of 105 and 155 MM howitzer batteries. Just a few days ago they were at the German border and their guns were smashing tons of steel and gunpowder into Germany. They have come to us as ambassadors of General Eisenhower to urge us as civilians to step up the production of shells and artillery. We will justify his confidence in us by making it a solemn pledge, more firepower for Eisenhower every worker, every hour."

Captain William Scott, formerly with Merrill's Marauders in the Burma-India-China campaign was introduced and expressed his pleasure at being in New Castle. "These men come to you as representatives of General Eisenhower," said Capt. Scott. "New Castle has welcomed them heartily and all of us appreciate it."

He then introduced Sergeant Richard Vanderbloemen of De Pere, Wisconsin. "When we swept through France and Belgium we thought the war was nearly over," said the sergeant. "We found it wasn't and it isn't. The Germans are tough fighting on their home grounds. They have pill boxes three feet thick on the Siegfried line and the only way to get them out is blast them with the heavy artillery." Pfc. Stanley Palka of McKeesport was next introduced. Private Palka is a member of the famed First Division and with his division fought through North Africa, Sicily, Normandy, France, Belgium and left the Aachen front to come back with the "Firepower" group.

Pfc. Steve Janicki of Ambridge and Pfc. Mel Byrnes of Philadelphia told the group of the rationing of shells because there was not enough in reserve to warrant the heavy barrage which should have been laid down. We need ammunition and we need it right away, was the theme of their talks.

Prior to the speaking program Bill McCombs led the crowd in singing pep songs with Jack Mauthe at the piano.

The crowd left the luncheon with one fact apparently impressed in their minds, Eisenhower needs ammunition and the only way he is going to get it is for Americans to speed up the production schedule.

G.I. Party Is Held At Sylvan Heights

Deshon Annex Veterans Tendered
Party At Golf Club Tuesday
Night, December 5

About 50 wounded veterans of Deshon Annex were guests at the Sylvan Heights Golf club Tuesday night when a G.I. party was held. The expenses of the party were borne by a group of gentlemen of the city who like to entertain the veterans but insist their names not be used.

Like other G.I. parties the men made their own program of entertainment, singing pep songs, enjoying the lunch prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Haycock, and dancing with the WACS from the Deshon General hospital who were also guests.

There was one unusual feature of the evening, Pvt. Thelma Paulsen of the WACS, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Paulsen of Sheridan, Pa., and Pvt. George Pancerob, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pancerob of Bairdroad, Pa., announced their engagement. The announcement was a surprise to the vets and WACS present, Jack Gerson, local jeweler who was present at the party, added to the announcement by stating that he would present the bride and groom with their wedding ring. They expect to be married January 12, 1945.

Cliff James was the accompanist of the evening and solos were presented by Walter Donnelly and Harry Masters, with David Jones accompanying Mr. Masters.

Nazi Policy Means Economic Collapse, Germans Warned

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(INS)—A proclamation by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower warned the German people today that their continued resistance and the "scorched earth" policy of German troops would only multiply the sufferings and hardships of Germany.

The hopes of the German people to avoid economic collapse after the defeat are largely dependent upon the extent of German opposition to Nazi plans to destroy German property and German natural resources before the occupation by allied troops," said the proclamation.

Read over allied transmitters in the second of the new series of allied military government broadcasts, the proclamation also pointed out that AMG "will not give any compensation" for public or private property destroyed by the German forces in retreat.

The first part of today's broadcast used the same message that introduced the first of the series. This portion contained the flat warning that "the German army will be defeated" and explained that the AMG would then present the highest state authority in Germany.

The broadcast was reported by the OWI.

MARKET TODAY IS IRREGULAR

Profit-Taking Impedes Rise In Market Causing Irregular Trend

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(INS)—Profit-taking today halted the recent impressive rally in the stock market. Prices receded as much as a half point as traders cashed in the gains of the preceding two sessions. Volume dried up on the decline, 200,000 shares changing hands in the first hour against more than 400,000 in the comparable period yesterday.

Rail stocks, leaders in the bulge upward early this week were irregular. Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio and Northern Pacific eased lower while Great Northern, N. Y. Central, and Union Pacific were firm to slightly higher.

U. S. Steel was lower but Bethlehem held. Chrysler and General Motors hovered around Tuesday's finals. United Air Lines reacted nearly a point. Coppers, oils and utilities were mostly lower.

Listed bonds were generally steady with a rise in Jersey Central issues a feature.

Hundred Million People Free From Nazi Persecution

Liberated Peoples Stripped Of Everything, President Says In First Report On UNRRA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(INS)—One hundred million people in Europe alone have been freed from the Germans after from three to five years of "Nazi looting, persecution, and brutality," President Roosevelt told congress Tuesday in the first report on United States participation in the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

"The conditions which prevail in many liberated territories have proven unfortunately to be fully as desperate as earlier reports have indicated," the president said. "The enemy has been ruthless beyond measure."

Mr. Roosevelt told congress that the Nazis instituted "a deliberate policy of starvation, persecution and plunder which has stripped millions of people of everything that could be destroyed or taken away."

The report gave an accounting of funds appropriated by various member countries to UNRRA. Congress has authorized United States participation to the extent of $1,350,000,000, of which $450,000,000 already has been appropriated, and provision has been made for transfer of an additional $350,000,000 in supplies and services.

The report accuses the Nazis of destroying food supplies and means of food production as a systematic policy, either as sheer punishment of civilian populations or to deprive guerrilla forces of means of sustenance.

"In Poland slow starvation of whole sections of the population has been a Cardinal German policy," the report stated.

It is predicted that food shortages will be severe this winter in parts of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Norway.

Congress Passes Pension Increases

Families Of Veterans Who Died From Non-Service Disabilities Also Included

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(INS)—Congress enacted legislation Tuesday increasing pensions for widows and children of veterans of World War I and sent it to the White House.

The maximum benefit under the bill is $74 monthly, compared with the present top of $56.

In addition, the new measure extends benefits to widows and children under 18 of veterans whose husbands died of non-service connected disabilities. The present pension act, approved in 1934, applies only to the families of veterans who died from service connected disabilities.

The House took final action on the measure by approving Senate amendments, which increased the benefits found in the House bill. Similar legislation was approved by the House four times, but died in the Senate.

Under the legislation approved today, the Senate finance committee estimated that the first year's cost will be approximately 37 million dollars.

The pension act does not apply to childless widows with incomes of $1,000 or to widows with children whose income is $2,500.

The new pension scale of monthly benefits follows, with a comparison of the present scale enacted in 1934 in parentheses:

Widow with no child, $35 ($22); widow and one child, $45 and $4 for each additional child ($30 and $4 for each additional child); no widow but one child, $18 ($15); no widow but two children, $27 ($22); no widow but three children, $36 ($30).
